DOCTORAL RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP

Job description

A Doctoral Research Fellowship (SKO 1017) in experimental linguistics is available at the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies, University of Oslo.

Applicants are expected to propose an independent research project in the area of experimental linguistics. Projects can be situated in different subfields of linguistics including but not limited to phonology, syntax or pragmatics, and, crucially, should make use of experimental methods such as eye-tracking or EEG. We especially encourage interdisciplinary projects that bridge disciplines such as theoretical linguistics, cognitive sciences and psycholinguistics. Priority will be given to projects that demonstrate the potential to bring about theoretical advances based on the innovative application of experimental methods.

The person appointed will be based in the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies and has the opportunity to use the Socio-Cognitive Laboratory of the Center for Multilingualism in Society across the Lifespan (MultiLing), a Center of Excellence financed by the Research Council of Norway. MultiLing's Socio-Cognitive Laboratory has an eye-tracker, an EEG system, and a video studio <https://www.hf.uio.no/multiling/english/topics/lab/>.

The person appointed will be affiliated with the Faculty's organized research training. The academic work is to result in a doctoral thesis that will be defended at the Faculty with a view to obtaining the degree of PhD. The successful candidate is expected to join the existing research milieu or network and contribute to its development. Read more about the doctoral degree.

The appointment is for a duration of 3 years. All PhD Candidates who submit their doctoral dissertation for assessment with a written recommendation from their supervisor within 3 years or 3 ½ years after the start of their PhD position, will be offered, respectively, a 12 or 6 month Completion Grant.

Qualification requirements

- A Master's degree or equivalent in linguistics, psychology, cognitive sciences or other relevant disciplines.
- The Master's degree must have been obtained and the final evaluation must be available by the application deadline.
- Fluent oral and written communication skills in English.
- Personal suitability and motivation for the position.

To be eligible for admission to the doctoral programmes at the University of Oslo, applicants must, as a minimum, have completed a five-year graduation course (Master's degree or equivalent), including a Master's thesis of at least 30 ECTS. In special cases, the Faculty may grant admission on the basis of a one-year Master course following an assessment of the study programme's scope and quality.

In assessing the applications, special emphasis will be placed on:

- The project's scientific merit, research-related relevance and innovation
- The applicant's estimated academic and personal ability to complete the project within the time frame
- The applicant's ability to complete research training
- Good collaboration skills and an ability to join interdisciplinary academic communities

Applicants who have recently graduated with excellent results may be given preference.
